Highlights from the International Careers Panel

By Andrea Duffy

It has been a busy and productive semester for CSU's International Studies Program! On Wednesday, March 28, we hosted our fourth annual International Careers Panel. As in past years, this event represented a partnership among International Studies, the International Development Program, the Career Center, and the Departments of Political Science and Languages, Literatures, and Cultures. It was a great success, with over 90 students attending and a great lineup of panelists representing a range of careers, including international teaching, translation, the non-profit sector, international consulting, and the US Department of State. The panelists offered an overall positive message for International Studies majors, reminding us that skills such as knowledge of a foreign language, critical thinking, and global cultural understanding are increasingly important in our globalized and globalizing world. They also offered some key pointers and advice for building your professional network and landing international jobs. In case you missed it, you can view the video at this link: <https://youtu.be/dRYdJ3rMkk0> or by visiting the International Studies Major Facebook Page: <https://www.facebook.com/INSTCSU/>.

FEATURED CORE COURSES - FALL 2018

INST 200: Interdisciplinary Approaches to Globalization

This course uses the subject of globalization to familiarize students with the field of International Studies. This is an excellent course for anyone interested in learning more about International Studies or our globalized world.

INST 301: International Studies Research Methods

This course familiarizes students with relevant research methods and applications for International Studies. It introduces students to principle research methods and sources within the Liberal Arts as well as key concepts within the field of International Studies. This course aims to prepare students of International Studies to understand, appreciate, and conduct research in academic contexts as well as in a range of careers.

INST 492: International Studies Capstone Seminar

The capstone seminar integrates three components: 1) a senior thesis project, 2) career and professional development, and 3) a global theme of the instructor's choice. This course is designed to enrich and enhance your academic experience and facilitate your transition to post-college life.

INST 487— International Studies Administrative Internship

CSU's International Studies Program is seeking an administrative intern for Fall 2018.

Details: This is a one-credit, one semester, unpaid internship. It involves a time commitment of approximately three hours per week on average.

Responsibilities: The intern will work closely with the Program Administration to plan and host events, edit program publications, and coordinate outreach. Interns are also encouraged to pursue projects or programming on relevant topics of their interest.

Qualifications: The ideal candidate is a student with junior or senior standing studying International Studies or a related subject. Technical skills, interpersonal skills, superior writing and editing, and experience with social media and graphic design are preferred.

To Apply: Submit your resume and a brief cover letter via email to Dr. Andrea Duffy, Director of International Studies at: Andrea.Duffy@colostate.edu.

For More Information: Contact Dr. Andrea Duffy at Andrea.Duffy@colostate.edu. Position will remain open until filled.
